...transformation has been significant, allowing women to serve in combat, lead military units, and engage in roles traditionally reserved for men.

Eschmann took the time to reflect on her own journey, indicating the pride she felt while serving in aircraft maintenance during a time when women's presence in that field was scarce. Chairman Carolyn Ketchel echoed this sentiment, emphasizing the need to keep alive the stories of these women and their contributions that have shaped U.S. military history. With each wreath laid and story shared, Okaloosa County is nurturing an environment where the achievements of women veterans are integral to the light.

It is more than just a day for remembrance. It's a testament to the resilience and pioneering spirit of our women veterans, who juggle their military commitments alongside family and community responsibilities, a balancing act that remains commendable.

The contributions of female veterans should never be understated and should garner the respect and acknowledgment they rightfully deserve. This Women Veterans Day serves as a reminder that their stories are integral to our collective history.
